Explanatory Notes:

For the purpose of this review, ECE researched the available professional and online resources to determine the status of an institution at the time of research. The results of each review are presented in one of the three statements below:

Statement	Description
Institution is a recognized degree-granting institution	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Institution operates in a country (or other political division) where academic degree-granting recognition is assessed at the institutional level; AND</li> <li>• Institution holds academic degree-granting recognition from the relevant educational authority where it operates (e.g. Ministry of Higher Education, Higher Education Council, Accrediting body etc.).</li> </ul>
Institution is not a recognized degree-granting institution	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Institution operates in a country (or other political division) where academic degree-granting recognition is assessed at the institutional level OR at the program level; AND</li> <li>• Institution lacks academic degree-granting recognition at any level from the relevant educational authority where it operates (e.g. Ministry of Higher Education, Higher Education Council, Accrediting body etc.)</li> </ul>
Institution is not a recognized degree-granting institution, but selected programs are recognized/accredited	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Operates in a country (or other political division) where academic degree-granting recognition is assessed at the program level; AND</li> <li>• Holds academic degree-granting recognition for at least one program that it offers (note: This Institution Review includes only one program. Other programs at the institution may or may not have academic recognition).</li> </ul>
Recognition Authority	Denotes the name of the relevant authority responsible for conferring academic degree-granting recognition within the country (or other political division) where the institution operates. When there are multiple recognition authorities within a country, only the recognition authority relevant to the status of the institution is provided.
